

Computing Ambassadors wanted!

Why do we have Computing Ambassadors?

We have computing ambassadors to help people become computer literate. Having computing ambassadors allows children to ask for help from not only teachers, but also ambassadors who are experts with computers.

Job Description for a Computing Ambassador

Computing Ambassadors need to have the following personal qualities:

- To be patient.
- To be responsible.
- To take care of computing equipment.
- To have knowledge on computer programs and software.
- To be able to stay safe online.
- To give good advice.

As a Computing Ambassador you agree to:

- Act as a positive role model.
- To be patient when working with other people.
- To attend meetings.
- Having a positive attitude and being on time.
- Agree to run a computing club each week during lunch time.
- Respect others and help those that are struggling with their work.
- Be responsible for computing equipment, ensuring all is in working order.
- Reporting any incident in suites such as broken equipment.
- Help promote computing around the school.
- Come up with different ideas for computing club.
- Work with children that are not very proficient with computers.
- Help raise awareness of the computing ambassadors around the school.
- Wear the computing ambassador badge at all times so people know what group you belong to.

Computing Ambassadors

Do you think you have what it takes to become a computing ambassador?

To apply:

Look out for the interview date where we will be looking to meet with potential candidates for this role.

You will be interviewed by the current computing ambassadors as well as, Mr
Hussain and Mr Dyal.

